A Favorable Outlook

Washington, Dec. 26. - General Schofield this morning received the following telegram from General Miles, dated Rapid City, S. D., December 25th: "I have not heard from Colonel Carr for 36 hours. The Colonel started to intercept Big Faot. Should he have succeeded or if he turned him to the Cheyenne agency, it will be favorable, as General Brooke reports that a messenger from Little Wound says Big Road and Fast Thunder, leaders of the Indians who went to the Bad Lands, with about half the Indians there, are coming, and he thinks the rest will fellow. Should not this be interrupted by some unforseen event, it will be most favorable."

CAMP, NEAR BATTLE CREEK (S. D.) Dec. 26.-The weather is cold and the rivers are frozen solid. A company of Chevenne scouts are encamped at the mouth of Battle Creek. Two attempts have been made by the hotiles, who number about 80, to break into their camp. The first attempt was made by only a few of the Indians, who were quickly repulsed with a loss of two killed and several wounded, and it is thought one was fatally hurt. The second attempt was made after dark by the whole band, led by Kicking Bear. Volly after volly was fired on both sides, and a desultory fire was kept up for an hour or more. It is not known how many hostiles were killed, but judging from the reports of scouts, there must have been several killed. Troops sent to the scene report everything quiet and no hostiles in sight.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26. - General Schofield has received a telegram from General Miles, dated Rapid City, December 24, as follows: Colonel Sumner reported his command at Big Foot's camp on the Cheyenne river, that Big Foot has assured him that he would do whatever he said, and bring all his people to Summer's mento, to which place he was trans-

SEATTLE (Wash.), Dec. 26.-This city was visited yesterday by the heaviest windstorm ever known here. The storm continued all day. Vessels in the harbor were torn from their moorings and tossed about like corks. Large trees and the telegraph and electric wires were laid low, and all railroad travel was suspended. Many buildings were demolished. The damage will be heavy. George Bell, a wood-chopper, was crushed to death in his tent by a falling tree.

A Few Appointments.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26 .- The President to-day appointed E. Darwin James of New York and Philip Garrett of Pennsylvania members of the Board of Indian Commissioners, vice W. H. Morgan, resigned, and Clinton B. Hick deceased. He also appointed Joseph W. Paddock of Nebrasha Government Director of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, vice James W. Savage deceased.

These Are the Books

We Are Giving Away.

This book contains 480 pages; is eight and one-half inches long, six inches wide and two inches thick. It is printed on extra heavy pa-per and is handsomely bound, with embossed cover and gilt-lettered back.

It is different from all other works ever published. First — It teaches those who have it how to tell what the matter is when a person gets sick.

All similar books tell what to do if you know what the disease is. This book tells you HOW TO DETECT THE DISEASE, and then what to do for it.

No other Book Published does this,

Second-When a person is really attacked by a dangerous disease, it enables you to know the fact, and in such cases its advice is: "Send for a competent physician at once." But in all ordinary cases, such as can be easily cured, it gives full directions for treatment.

Third-It is not confined to the practice used by any one class of physicians; it gives, separately, and for each disease, the methods used by each of the different schools of medicine, and in ALL CASES the PRE-SCRIPTIONS ARE MADE by the MOST EMINENT MEN in their respective modes of practice This makes the work specially suited to the needs of every family, no matter what medical school they prefer.

The book contains a valuable chapter of symptoms, which will add wonderfully in diagnosing diseases, and the proper remedies are given for Allopathic, Homeopathic, Eclectic, Hydropathic and Herbal treatments.

on hand, and we invite inspection.

There are three chapters in the "Family Physician" which are worthy of special mention, namely, those on "Diseases of Women," "iseases of Infants" and "Care of the sick."

The first of these is a model of its kind. It is chaste in Januage, contains no disgusting pictures for children to happen on and be overcurious about, and taken altogether is the most practical, sen ible and straight-forward treatise upon this delicate subject that has ever been printed.

This chapter alone is worth many times the cost of the book to every mother, even if it had to be purchased at its regular price.

The other chapters referred to are equally well written and valuable, see "Our Plan" on 4th page.

It is customary with newspapers to give premiums to sew subseribers only; but the publishers of the WERKLY GAZET'E mean to revise this old rule; they intend to do as well, at le-st, by their old subscribers—those who have stood by the paper in years past, and paid their money for it "right straight along." We propose to show our apprecation of these friends in a substantial manner; and as the premium to be offered is expensive, and as our express object in offering it is to increase our list of subscribers, we will sak every old subscribers, who may renew his subscription, thus receiving the valuable premium, to constitute himself a missionary, and thus in securing at least ONE new subscriber. Beck and Farmer Having a Little Entroe Gazette: Will you kindly give space in your valuable paper for an answer to your correspondent signing himself "Farmer." As he asks me some direct questions, no doubt it will be of interest to many of your readers that I should be heard. And right here I want to assure you that what I have written and what I shall now write is not simply for the purpose of controversy—far from it, for I know you can't afford the use of your columns for idle bickerings. As "Farmer" assures me he has no disposition to do aught that will wound position to do aught that will wound the feelings of any one, but is simply seeking after the truth, let me say that I heartily join him in his wish that I heartily join him in his wish that the discussion of home matters. that the discussion of home matters many instances even more, for it is a should lead to good results, for I think notorious fact that Reno for many he must admit there is an irrepressible conflict going on in this community, and my opinion is that the whole trouble arises from the fact that we do the fact that I lost over five recall the fact that I lost over five the fact th not understand each other. A fair and candid interchange of thought did not get the benefit of it, will some will, I believe, do good. And here let me say that the comments of the GAZETTE Saturday evening on the communication of "Farmer" were years was the storekeeper's graveyard. So it must be evident that the mer-one tell me what become of it? think one of the great troubles with the mass s of the people is the exag-erated ideas they have of the profits of the merchants, and the query of that he is badly at sea. Hear him:

"Do they not, when they get goods in carloads, add what might be called a bulk profit of 70 or 78 cents to each 100 pounds and then charge 10, 20 or 30 per cent profit?" This is not the full query, but let me answer this as I go along. No, he don't. At least not once in a hundred times. If the market should advance sharply, such might be possible, but with the com-five dollars advance of first cost and freight. Is twenty-five dollars an outrageous advance to charge on a car-load of stuff that cost six hundred or sixteen hundred dollars.?

I am next presented with this query: "Suppose a merchant here next June gets a carload of goods from

S. F., among which is forty hundred pounds of potatoes; freight in car lots 30 or 40 cents per hundred, the difference between car lots and smaller lots being from 60 to 80 cents. Does not the merchant add the difference, say the way it is done. Possibly an avaricious dealer might do so if he had the market to himself, but even then percentage. No, he very likely would ask double, or possibly four or ten times the cost. But suppose he did do this; would it be an injury to our local producers? Will our potato-raisers kick the coming winter and spring if some merchant or all of them combine together and import potatoes from S. F. or any other place and put up the price? I guess not, but if they do, then build larger the lunatic asy-

of butter and eggs and asks what in-ducement does the Reno merchant offer for the production of either. My answer is that it is to the interest of every merchant to buy every pound of butter and every dozen eggs at figures at which he can live, to use a com-mon expression. I know that to me it is always pleasing to deal with my neighbor, but not simply for his sake. No, I am no philanthropist, not at all. But if I insist that our traffic shall be mutually beneficial, pray tell what more do you want? And so, no doubt, a fact that ranch eggs are in greater demand than the foreign article? But above all, is it not a fact that "Farmer" blames the merchant for ething for which he is not respon is with our merchants.

"Farmer" next refers to the matter

there is in Reno, what

'Farmer" is almost positive timely and appropriate. Now, I will take up the several questions of "Farmer" and answer. First he asks: "Have you not in the past bought your wheat in the cheapest market-Utah and California-and then regulated the price of the farmers' wheat here by what that cost you, regardless of the price at which you sold your flour?" As this query contains a number of "Farmer" suspects is simply impossi-ble. Let me here suggest that many carloads of goods have come to Reno that cost hundreds of dollars and have been sold for less than twentyquestions, let me divide and answer one at a time. First there is the question, Did I not buy in the cheapest market? I answer yes; and further answering, let me ask you what did you take me for? Did you expect me to lie about it and then try to justify? And further, did you expect my mill company to go to the dearest market? I guess you did not, for in that case my act would nave been sufficient proof that I as manager of the mill should take up quarters in the Lunatic Asylum, and get waked up by a dose of Dr. Bishop's lightning 70 cents to the potatoes, calling that the cost, and then sell at a profit of 10 to 30 per cent. even on the 70 cents added?" I answer no. That is not battery. No, no, Mr. Farmer, I am not insane. Besides, I may say there is no precedent for it.

Now for the second installment of the query: "Did you not regulate the price of Washoe wheat by what the I don't think he would stop to figure foreign grain cost?" I say, yes, sir; and as you refer to years ago, I will also refer to that time, for it will be remembered that in some respects the conditions have changed. I refer particularly to charges in freight. Ten years ago we paid our local farmers $50 a ton. The same grade of wheat cost in California $30, and the freight on the same was about $20 from Sacramento. Was this a wrong and a crime? Is it not plain on its face that the farmer here got $20 a ton more than the farmer in California? Was this wrong? Do you not know that the limited amount raised here would not keep the mill running sixty days in the year?

Next you ask: "Do you not have to stand in with the Reno merchants to keep up the price of flour?" I answer no. So lar as I am aware, these in the year? merchants are as anxious to buy cheap as anybody. Those merchants who as anybody. Those merchants who buy our goods do so because they are equally good and equally cheap. The Buseride Will Company can't get a cent more for their products than what the outside article costs here in car-loads. Does "Farmer" know this? But I am at a loss to know just what he would have. Does he want a big price for wheat and then get his flour for a little price? If so, will be tell me how the thing can be done?

Now for a little history: Last spring Now for a little history: Last spring my company imported some fifty tons of the very best wheat for seed that could be found in California. It cost in carloads one dollar and seventy cents at our mill. We sold it to those who wanted clean seed at cost, and agreed to pay the same price for the crops if equally good and clean. The seed was sown, and within the last three months most of the crops have come in, not quite so clean as the seed, and this was mainly the fault of the thresher, but in other respects as good thresher, but in other respects as good as that served. Did the mill redeem its promise? Ask those interested. In this connection it may not be out of place to make some comparisons.

From time to time my company has bought wheat in several outside places, as, for instance, Sheridan and Lincoln, Cal.; Ogden and Nephi, in Utah; Honey Lake valley and Lovelock, on this side of the mountains.

I read in the San Francisco Mr. EDITOR: At the risk of indorsing proprietary preparation, I have a few words in favor of a new laxative principle. But market reports something like this: "Butter, gilt edge, 30 cents; good to than others, and even that some is better than others, and even that some is off grade. May this not be the case here? If not, why not? Having handled considerable butter while the formula, which finding purely vegetable, and so mild as to be to my mind almost inert, I consented. Imagine my astonishment when perfect laxative action was rekeeping slop in Nevada, I know it is so. Often has butter come to me as No. 1 when I knew it was not fit for ported. It has two great points. First, being purely vegetable, it is (unlike mercury) not cumulative in the system, being easily car axle grease, and still I could not but believe the maker was in earnest in ried off by the digestive processes; and second, it is effective with a less quantity of the saying it was good. So if the mer-chant refused it because he thought athartic principle than has hitherto been attainable. Let me ask if it is not a fact that he must me ask if it is not a fact that he must send for these things or go without? Does he not know that at times ranch eggs, as our local product is called, can not be had at any price. Yester-day I heard a dealer in town tell a farmer to bring in all the fresh eggs he had at 60 cents a dozen. Is this not a fair price for eggs, and is it not a fact that ranch eggs are in greater

Eggs and butter are usually quite plentiful during the summer. What is the result? Cheap, of course. This is ever the case the world over. Scarcity make high prices and plenty the reverse, and this rule, it seems, was in force when the nabob farmer of Egypt sold his corn to the famishing people of other lands. By the way, if "Farmer" will give me the name of any person in Reno who refuses his ranch eggs in preference to those imported from Utah, I will move to have him sent to the tender mercies of Dr. Everybody come and be convinced that we mean what

Only recently have we known any ing about what was going on under e baby's skin, writes a correspondent Nightingale. Only within the last few years has the science of pædiatrics arisen. Formerly the baby was dosed just like his elder, and if he lived well nd good; if not, the will of the Lord be done! The fact that reactions to disease and to drugs in the young organism ary from those of the same disease in he adult had received no recognition. Even the sick baby was not understood and much less the well one. Science has now, however, awakened to the fact that the baby is not completely developed when it is born. Dr. Brown calls our attention to the fact that the neworn baby is blind, and not only blind ut deaf. We know that the baby is orn with aimless motions and that true atention is rather a late development. fet the baby has very perfect little nuscles. The little hand is complete, very muscle is there with its glistening endon, its blood vessels and nerves, eady for use. The failure does not aparently lie in the hand itself. It is ather to be accounted for by the fact hat many at least of these nerves have no continuation beyond the spinal ord. Hence, whlle they can serve or, reflex motions they lack any omplete connection with the brain. That now happens is the shooting own from the part of the brain dele rated for the control of these muscles of transparent thread-like fiber, or buniles of fibers, to join or at least to comunicate with these nerves which have eminated in the cord. Even with the ompletion of the tract, however, the inclinet open for communication. It s all in the condition of an uninsulated

I graph wire. Impulses will be de-tected all along the line. This is the ondition of much of the nervous sysem of the child at birth. It is almost, ut not quite, ready for use. Gradually he transparent nerve strands now be ome white by the addition of a fatty material called myeline, which forms a protecting sheath when the nerve is steady for conduction. It is a curious fact that this development waits for the stimulus of need Not until the light strikes the retina of the eye do we have a completion of the sight mechanism. The same is true of sound, touch and muscular control. It is probably true that as adults we have hot the mechanism for actions which we have never tried. There is hence a truth in the complaint "I can't do this or that." There is also, however, truth in in the rejoinder "You can if you try." With the intention new tracts develop or the old mechanism becomes endowed with new powers.

A little more thought given to the management of the body might result in its benefit. The body is a machine capable of advantageous application or the

STAGE REALISM.

Is Forced to Explain.

"We were playing in a small town, back in the seventies," said a theatrical man to a Denver Republican reporter, when our leading heavy man had rather a tough experience. All the miners were in the theater. Well, the heavy man had been persecuting a poor maiden through two acts. In the third act he came to the powerful scene of the play. 'At last,' he said, 'I have you in my power, and nothing on earth can save you. I, who was the slave, am now the master.' So saying, he advanced towards his trembling victim.

"'Mercy!' she moaned.
"'Mercy!' he retorted. 'You had no mercy for me and I will have none for

"At this moment a gruff voice was heard from the gallery: 'You blamed varmint, I'll settle with you.' There was a crack of a pistol and a bullet whizzed near the heavy man. 'Plug the son of a gun, boys,' continued the voice, and a shower of bullets saluted the stage villain. He didn't stop long, but fled from the stage.

"In the wing he met the stage manager, who was white with anger.

"'You have broken up the scene,' he said. " Well? "" Go back to the stage, sir, and wait for your exit.' "'I guess not.' "'I tell you I won't have a man in my company who is so easily disconcerted Go on with the scene, or you leave the ompany to-morrow.'

"That was serious. To be stranded in that forsaken town was calculated to make the heavy man appreciative.

'I'll go back,' he said. "He tore off his wig just before going on, and, stepping down to the footlights with an injured expression of countenance, he said: "'Ladies and gentlemen (there were no ladies there, but that didn't matter), with your kind permission I will resume the scene. Before doing so, however, I want to call your attention to the fact that the young lady and myself are merely acting parts. In reality we are the best of friends. I bear you no ill-will for your display of heroic chivalry. I trust, however, that you will curb your generous sentiments, for if you should hit me the play would be interrupted. If any of the gentlemen will meet me after the show at McCarty's they will find out I am not a bad fellow.'

"Loud cheers greeted this speech and the play was resumed."

The Most Despicable of Men. Among the many men whom I long to see get their deserts is the man who thinks it beneath his dignity to do a kindly service. He is insulted if a neighbor asks him to do a favor for him in town, and says that he "would really like to see himself make a pony express of himself to carry bundles in and out to oblige any man or woman!" Oh! how I shall beat the cymbal and smite the drum when that man comes into the inheritance of his just award! It costs so little in this world to be gracious that even putting the matter on the low plane of policy, than which there is no plane for action much lower, it is better worth one's while to be affable and kind than otherwise. Anybody would travel a good piece out of one's way to have dealings with a polite and friendly person, and, on the contrary, almost anybody would travel a long way around to avoid meeting or doing business with a churl.—Chicago Herald. drum when that man comes into the in-

WHAT SHE FEARED. But the Little Married Man Made Ever, Thing All Right.

The car was filled with excursionists returning from the exposition, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch. Every seat con-tained a pair of Buckeye lovers. The last bear died in Ohio some time ago, but the art of hugging has survived. It was the midnight express, and the air was right chilly, but not a soul noticed that except a poor, little married man who sat alone in the half seat by the unlighted stove. He looked down the car and noticed that apparently all the young men were one-armed; at least but one arm of each male was visible. The light in the car was very low, however, and that may account for the phenom Lovers like twilight; if Adam and Eve did not sing "In the Gloaming" it was because they knew a fresher song. And it was twilight in that car, for all three double lamps were turned down very low, and before the train was out of the Alleghany yards the flame in one of them had sputtered, flared a moment, and expired. Of course every girl in the car was alarmed when the gloom deepened. Every girl got a little closer to her protector, and a few minutes later, when the second lamp began to show signs of collapse-the flame leaping up frantically as if afraid to die-about a dozen pianissimo screams came from as many feminine throats.

The conductor opened the door a few minutes later and the draught finished lamp number two. This left one lamp alight at the rear end of the car. How anxiously it was observed! Would it go out? It looked consumptive, but there was no draught to expedite its decease. At last the train whistled for its first stop and the little married man came out of his corner by the stove to alight. He had been a bachelor once, and he remembered it as he laid his hand on the door-knob. The train had not stopped, but he opened the deor, and immediately a gust of wind murdered the last lamp. As he stood in the doorway inhaling cinders and river fog he had the satisfaction of hearing a sweet, low voice murmur behind him: "Oh, George, I was so afraid!"

"Of what, my darling?" "That that lamp would never go out!"

FUNERALS FOR DOGS.

Peculiar Ideas of a Mild-Mannered and Charitable Lady. A mild-mannered old lady who has nothing else in life to do except clip coupons is seeking for a philanthropist who will help organize the "National Dog-Burial Company." This lover of the canine race is Mrs. Isabella Dean Brack, who is temporarily staying with friends in Brooklyn, says the New York World. She has been exploiting her pet hobby for years in her native city of Philadelphia, and meeting but discouragement there has determined to enlist sympathy in the metropolis. "Why shouldn't we bury our pets de cently and mark their graves?" she asked a World reporter. "I have never any children, and all the affection in my nature goes out to the lower animals, dogs especially. How I love the dear little things! Why, my little Andrew is cuter than any baby that ever lived. He is a pug and he knows every word I say. You can see the tears gathe in his big brown eyes when he is scolded. Now, haven't I the right to put a tomb stone over that little darling dies? Of course I have, and there are thousands who believe just as I do. "I want to know a hundred ladies who are willing to assist me in forming a company for the purpose of having a plot of our own for our dead doggies. We could crystallize—no, not crystallize—capitalize it, couldn't we? I don't know exactly how that is done, but I suppose it means to raise capital. Oughtn't the city contribute something?" Mrs. Brack says she will visit some leading bankers very soon if she does

The Astonished Mistress Elected to Stay and the Cook Left.

A young lady of one of our suburbs who married recently and went to Connecticut city to live reports a remark on the part of a servant girl, says the Boston Transcript, which is quite epic in that line. The lady, having a large house and being desirous of running it in good form, called up her cook each day to the dining-room, which was on the main floor, the kitchen leing in the basement, and there gave her her orders for the meals and other matters connected with the down-stairs work. For a day or two the cook took the orders with a rather bad grace, but ommitted no overt act of insurrection. But presently, one day after the mis tress had finished her orders, the cook spoke up. "And now, mum," she said, "I want ye to listhen to what I have to say, an' it's this: That if ye're go'an' to shtay here, an' ye have ordhers to give me, ye'll have to come down-shtairs to the basement, for I'll not be comin' up here to yeanny more."

Before the young mistress could re cover her breath after that "If ye're go'an' to shtay," the girl went on: "An' there's another thing I want to tell ye. I notice that ye have wine on the tebble aich day, but that none of it whativer gets down-shtairs to the kitchen. Now, that's nayther roight nor fair, an' I give ye warnin' that some of that wine must find its way to the that wine must not its way to the kitchen or I'll be lavin' ye."

The mistress had by this time recovered her composure. "You may be lavin' me this afternoon, please!" she said.

and in the middle of it stood a doughty little champion who met and deliberately knocked over, one by one, a score or more of big, burly-looking fellows, as they advanced to the attack. Giants as they were in size, the valiant pigmy, proved more than a match for them. It was all so funny that Jenks woke up laughing. He accounts for the dream by the fact that he had just come to the conclusion, after trying nearly every big, drastic pill on the market, that Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pelleta, or tiny Sugar-coated Granules, easily "knock out" and beat all the big pills hollow! They are the original and only genuine Little Liver Pills.

Beware of Imitations, which contain Poisonous Minerals. Always ask for Dr. Pierce's Pelleta, which are Little Sugar-coated Pilla, or Anti-bilious Granules.
